The American Academy of Audiology Foundation's STAR Program offers full-time audiology graduate students (AuD, PhD, AuD/PhD) at a U.S. university funding to support their participation in professional meetings where they will present research or gain an educational experience not available in their academic programs. Selected students will receive reimbursement to participate in any qualifying educational event, including AAA 2023+HearTECH Expo. For a virtual event, the registration fee will be reimbursed.

Students who receive funding through the STAR Program are required to provide the Foundation with a post-conference statement (2-3 paragraphs) that details the experience and learning outcomes within 30 days following the meeting. STAR recipients are also encouraged to send photographs (.jpeg format) with their post-conference statements for use on the Foundation Web site and in other media.

A committee of audiologists will review application materials, and award notification will be made by January 16, 2023.

Eligibility, Guidelines, and Conditions

1. Students must be full-time audiology graduate students (AuD, PhD, AuD/PhD) at a U.S. university at the time of the conference.
2. Students presenting their own research are given preference in STAR Program funding.
3. Students can only receive one STAR Program award during their graduate school career.
4. Awarded funding constitutes a reimbursement for allowable expenses incurred and will be made following conference attendance and the submittal of appropriate documentation.
5. Students are required to notify the Foundation if they have applied for and/or have received funding from other sources. STAR funding is not intended for use when other mechanisms of support have already been provided/received to cover conference expenses.
